Down in St. Andrew's bay, with ten feet of water over its roof is a pre-historic building of large dimensions. A Mr. Massalina says it was shown to him by his father when he was a small boy, nearly 60 years ago. He also states that he has counted seven windows on a side. Strange as it may seem, information regarding this building has never reached beyond local boundaries, although it is close to a great shell mound that has been visited by thousands. A. A. Calhoun, of the local paper, has just learned of the building and believes that it and the shell mound have some connection. He has organized a searching party, and with Mr. Massalina as guide, will make as thorough an examination of the building as the means at hand will allow. - Manatee Record.
